

Psychodrama for Life Workshops

April - May 2009

Personal and Professional Development
Director Rob Brodie

Wednesdays 6.30am-9.30pm, 29 April - 27 May plus Friday 22 6:30 PM to 9:30 PM,
Saturday 23 May 10:00 AM to 5:00 PM

Being a participant, you will have fun and work hard as you enact scenes from life and imagination with assistance from the director. People meet and connect naturally in greater depth by assisting in each others dramas and by participating in the life of the group.

Improvisational action under the guidance of the leader is involving and teaches new life skills. Sometimes called "the play of the soul," it assists in becoming integrated within yourself.

Relationships and your work may change and your spontaneity increase as you better recognise what is most important to you and perceive others more clearly. Professionals participating can find their work with others deepens and is enlivened.

Relationships between participants in the group develop and individual learning is integrated into everyday life. The content of the workshops are based on the concerns of participants and the leader's assessments.

New people make an appointment to ensure the group suits their aims. Participants undertake to participate for one full term.
