

THE DOC'S BATTERY & CHARGER REVIEWS

BATTERY CASE REVIEW

MARCH 2005

REPORT

BATTERY CASE REVIEW

MARCH 2005

It has been almost 12 months since my review of battery cases. The Doc is happy to report a revised version is now available. A few improvements have been made to the design. The cases look like this:

The battery case can securely carry 4 AA batteries or 4 AAA batteries. You cannot mix battery sizes in the same case at the same time. The AA batteries are placed between the plastic dividers, and the AAA batteries across the undulations on the plastic dividers. This is clearer in the following photograph:

Because the AA and AAA batteries are inserted at right angles to each other (use the clip as the reference point), you cannot mix battery sizes in the same case at the same time. The clip has also been redesigned, making it easier to open the case.

CONCLUSION

These two changes alone make an already good battery case; great. Both battery cases are available from the The Battery Wizard: www.thebatterywizard.com The older cases have been discounted with the introduction of the new cases – they are still great for those who only carry around AA batteries.

Report date: 29 March 2005

<http://www.users.on.net/mhains/>

thedoc@internode.on.net

© Michael G Hains 2005