Coffee Break

Question on Software or Operating system.

ADD A PROGRAM TO YOUR STARTUP FOLDER.

Some users first check their Email after starting their computer. You can have Microsoft XP open your Email software for you on start-up. There maybe other program you would like to start when first starting the computer, a desktop calendar or a small analog clock.
To add an item to your start folder is a simple Drag & Drop.

First go to [Start] then [All Programs], Choose the program you wish to start at boot-up.

Right click and select [Send To] then click [Desktop (create shortcut)].

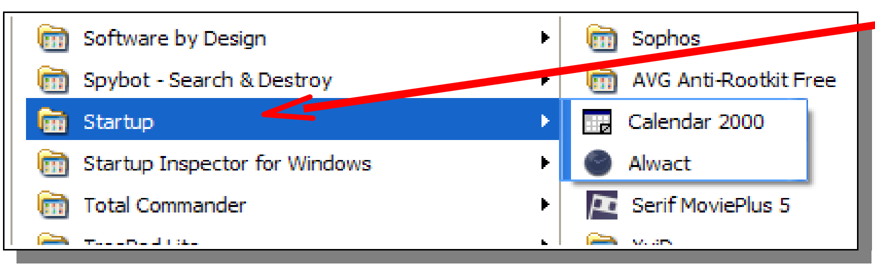
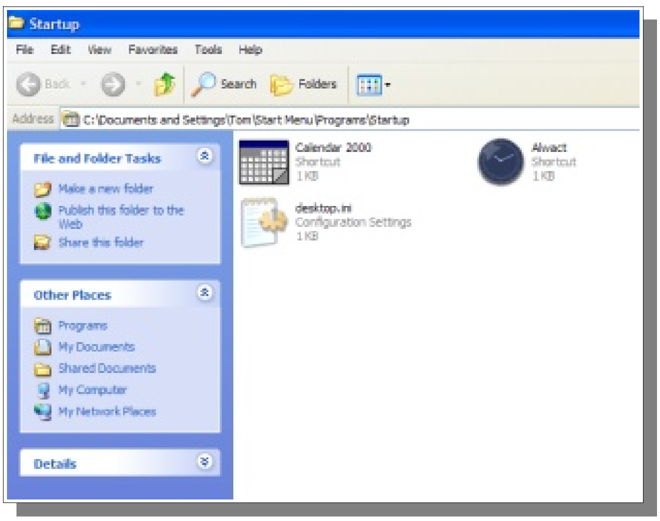
Return to the [Start] button then select [All Programs] and double click [Startup] folder.





When the Startup folder opens just Drag & Drop

The short-cut icon you made into the folder.
Next time your computer Boots_Up that program will start.

To remove from the Startup folder just reopen the folder and delete the item.
